New England Division, Offices 175 Devonshire St. and 36 Arch St., Boston, Mass.

Other Division Offices to be established in all leading cities of the United States, the Dominion of Canada and Mexico.

The Mutual News Company has been organized with ample capital, for the purpose of doing a wholesale business in supplying Newsdealers with Daily and Weekly Newspapers, Periodical Literature of every description, Books, Stationery, Specialties, Novelties and Miscellaneous goods of all kinds that they may require.

Confident that there is an opening for a new and entirely independent concern, the Mutual News Company is prepared to do business with Newsdealers, Booksellers and Stationers in every State and Territory in the United States, the Dominion of Canada and Mexico.

The Mutual News Company proposes to furnish its customers with a prompt and reliable service, all packages being forwarded by the cheapest and most expeditious routes. Small orders will receive the same care and attention as large ones, it being a positive rule of the Company that all customers shall be served alike.

Catalogues are now ready and will be mailed on application.

It is the aim of the projectors of the Mutual News Company to make it MUTUAL IN FACT AS WELL AS IN NAME, believing that the time has come when retail dealers should have a voice in the immense volume of trade now conducted on the American Continent.

Orders from the Trade are Solicited.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

HAVE JUST READY:

The Correspondence and Diaries of John Wilson Croker.

Secretary to the Admiralty from 1809-1830, etc., etc. Edited by Louis J. Jennings. With portrait. 2 vols., 8vo, $5.

Mr. Croker has hitherto been known to the public chiefly as a regular contributor to the Quarterly Review, and as having incurred the malice of Lord Macaulay and Miss Martineau. The volumes now published will, for the first time, give a just account of his character and career. For 21 years he took a prominent part in public life as Secretary to the Admiralty, and as a Member of Parliament, and though he never accepted Cabinet office, he was on several occasions urged to do so by the statesmen of the Conservative Party.

The most noteworthy English Memoirs of the first half of the XIXth Century; forming an invaluable record of English and Continental politics, literature, society and famous personages, as observed during Croker's political life, and his long association with the Quarterly Review.

Among the remarkable features of these papers are—A Series of Conversations with the Duke of Wellington (taken down by Mr. Croker immediately after their occurrence), giving his own impressions of his battles, his opinions of Napoleon, anecdotes, etc., besides a large number of Wellington's letters of equal value;

Personal Recollections of George IV., as given by him to Mr. Croker;

A Very Intimate Correspondence with Sir Robert Peel, covering thirty years of English politics;

And a collection of letters, reminiscences, witty and striking anecdotes, and ana, almost unequalled in literature, and dealing with

Scott, Byron, Moore, Southey, Macaulay, Wilberforce, Talleyrand, Palmerston, Canning, Brougham, Guizot, Disraeli, Isaac Disraeli, Theodore Hook, and many others.

Houghton, Mifflin & Company

WILL PUBLISH, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 10 :

RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

By OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES. Vol. VII. in "American Men of Letters." With fine Steel Portrait. 1 vol., 16mo, gilt top, $1.25.

The public is justified in anticipating this book with remarkable interest. The brief address made by Mr. Holmes at a meeting of the Massachusetts Historical Society soon after Mr. Emerson's death evinced a most intimate knowledge of his character and works, and a noble appreciation of both. With such a subject, the Autocrat of the Breakfast Table must be even wiser and more engaging than ever before, if that is possible.

JOHN ADAMS.

By JOHN T. MORSE, Jr., author of Lives of John Quincy Adams and Thomas Jefferson. Vol. XI. in "American Statesmen" Series. 1 vol., 16mo, gilt top, $1.25.

The excellence of Mr. Morse's previous volumes in this series guarantees a book of great interest on John Adams, who is one of the most striking figures in American political history.

KENTUCKY.

By NATHANIEL S. SHALER, Director of the State Geological Survey of Kentucky. Vol. IV. in "American Commonwealths" Series. With a Map. 1 vol., 16mo, gilt top, $1.25.

Professor Shaler is exceptionally qualified to write the history of Kentucky, being a native of the State, familiar with its annals, and able to present in due proportion their various distinctive features and events.

ORIENTAL RELIGIONS AND THEIR RELATION TO UNIVERSAL RELIGION.

PERSIA. By SAMUEL JOHNSON. With an introduction by O. B. FROTHINGHAM. 1 vol., 8vo, $5.

This volume completes the great work to which Mr. Johnson devoted himself with singular patience and energy. His plan contemplated a careful and sympathetic survey of the great religious systems of the East—of India, China and Persia. The first two volumes have been before the public for several years, and have won, from those critics most competent justly to estimate their merits, very hearty commendation. This, like the two other volumes, is a most valuable contribution to the study of Comparative Religion, and is a work of surpassing interest.

TOMPKINS AND OTHER STORIES.

By P. DEMING, author of "Adirondack Stories." 1 vol., 18mo. Little Classic style.

A book of unusually interesting short stories, told with remarkable simplicity and sympathy.

JUST PUBLISHED:

NOTES IN SEASON.

VAN ANTWERP, BRAGG & CO. have purchased the entire list of school books formerly published by Jones Brothers & Co., of Cincinnati, comprising Ridpath's Histories of the United States and English Grammar, Milne's Arithmetics and Algebra, Bigsby's Philology, Forbriger's Patent Drawing Tablets, etc., and Smith's Music Reader.

R. WORTHINGTON announces a new book entitled "A Modern Midas," by Maurice Jokai the celebrated Hungarian novelist. In its original tongue the novel has been very popular for its originality and forceful style. As a vivid representation of Hungarian life and character it has an additional value for American readers. In Europe Jokai has a reputation as the ablest and most popular of the Hungarian writers of fiction, but this is the first of his books that has been translated here. The work of translation has been admirably done.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT announce that on Dec. 1 the price of Judge Tourgeé's new book, "An Appeal to Cæsar," was raised to $1.25. They are now selling the third edition of 2500 since publication day, Oct. 11, which, considering the fact that the book is not a novel, but one of hard facts and figures, with arguments based upon them, is pretty good evidence that the book is a live one, on a live topic. This house has also brought out Dr. Henry C. McCook's "Tenants of an Old Farm." Dr. McCook's reputation as a scientist is world-wide in his specialty of insect life, and his animated narrative and lucid, attractive style have combined to make a delightful and instructive book. The illustrations from nature are correct and plentiful, and of course Beard's comicalities are full of suggestive characterization. The book is handsomely printed.

D. APPLETON & CO. publish to-day a volume entitled "The Hundred Greatest Men," containing fine steel portraits, accompanied by biographies, of the one hundred greatest men of history. The volume has a general introduction by Ralph Waldo Emerson, and introductions to the various sections by Matthew Arnold, H. Taine, Max Müller, R. Renan, Noah Porter, A. P. Stanley, H. Helmholtz, Jas. A. Froude, and Prof. John Fiske. They have also just ready Dr. William A. Hammond's new novel "Doctor Grattan," in which he is said to have "availed himself of his great experience in mental disorders which often lead to incidents of the most romantic and surprising kind;" "The Cruise of the Alice May in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Adjacent Waters," by S. G. W. Benjamin, with some seventy illustrations depicting the incidents of the voyage and the places visited; and the fifth volume of the revised edition of Bancroft's "History of the United States." The sixth and concluding volume of the latter work will be published shortly.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "The Poems of Sidney Lanier," edited by his wife, and containing a memorial by William Hayes Ward, who shows a hearty appreciation of Lanier's rare artistic nature. The poems in this volume appeared in our best literary journals from 1867 to 1884. This house has also just issued in two volumes the "Correspondence and Diaries of John Wilson Crocker," the eminent statesman and author, edited by Louis J. Jennings; Rev. Henry J. Van Dyke's "Realities of Religion," which he dedicates to "men and women of every class and creed scattered throughout the world; who have felt with pain and hunger of the heart, this craving for reality in religion;" Julia C. Dorr's "Bermuda," an idyl of the Summer Islands, including also the article called "Bermudian Days" that first appeared in the Atlantic Monthly in 1883; and the eighth volume of "Stories by American Authors," containing "The Brigade Commander," by J. W. De Forest; "Split Zephyr," by Henry A. Beers; "Zerviah Hope," by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps; "The Life Magnet," by Alvey A. Ade; and "Osgood's Predicament," by Elizabeth D. B. Stoddard.

Clement, Clara Erskine, and Hutton, Lawrence. Artists of the nineteenth century: hand-book, containing, 1884, biographical rors and Appeals. Reports of cases. By J. W. Houston, associate judge. V. 5: [1875-

W: Wood & Co., 1884. 297 p. il. and pl. O. cl., $3 (corr. price).

Bonney, Rev. T. J., ed. Cathedral churches of England and Wales; descriptive, historical, pictorial. N. Y., Cassell & Co., 1884. 16+272 p. il. O. cl., $5; full mor., $10.

Thirty-five cathedral churches of England are described here and profusely illustrated; the papers are by as many different persons, who have each made his subject a special study. The work is elegantly printed on tinted paper with gilt edges, and is in a richly stamped cover of green and gold. It is a specially desirable one, to give in this holiday season, to any one interested in ecclesiastical matters, especially ecclesiastical architecture.

Boone, C. T. The law of mortgages of real and personal property, including also the law of pawn or pledge, and collateral securities, as determined by the courts of England and the United States. San Francisco, S. Whitney & Co., 1884. 17+552 p. S. shp., $3

Botta, Anna C. Lynch. Hand-book of universal literature from the best and latest authorities. New ed., rev. and brought down to 1885. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1885 [1884]. 16+575 p. O. cl., $2.

Since the first publication of this work, in 1860, many new names have appeared in modern literature. Japan, hitherto almost unknown to Europeans, has taken her place among the nations with a literature of her own, and the researches and discoveries of scholars in various parts of the world have thrown much light on the literatures of antiquity. To keep pace with this advance, a new edition of the work has been called for. Prefixed is a very brief summary of an important and exhaustive history of the alphabet recently published.—Prefatory Note.

Brace, C. Loring. Gesta Christi; or, a history of humane progress under Christianity. 4th ed., with new preface and supplementary chapter. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1884. 24+520 p. O. cl., reduced to $1.50.

The new preface meets some of the objections which have been offered in England and America to the argument of the work, especially to the position that the history of the Church is not always or necessarily identical with the history of Christianity, and that the faults, sins, and inconsistencies of the former are not to be charged upon the faith of Jesus. A supplementary chapter considers the relation of Christianity to art in the Middle Ages, and endeavors to show that the two great æsthetic conceptions of these ages—namely, that of the Madonna and of the pointed Gothic Cathedral—are due to side influences of the Christian faith working on the sentiment of beauty in that era.

Bremer, Fredrika. Life, letters, and posthumous works; ed. by her sister, Charlotte Bremer; from the Swedish by F. Millow. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1884]. 489 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 448.) pap., 20 c.

Brewster, Jos. C. Empire and prophecy. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie & Co., 1884. 361 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Brodie, Emily. Norman and Elsie; or, two little prisoners. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., [1884]. 3-224 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Norman and Elsie were two of a family of five children who had been left in care of an aunt while their parents visited America. The children were playing in the lumber-room, when the wind blew the door shut making them prisoners a day and a night, hence the title.

Brown, J. Graham, M.D. Medical diagnosis: a manual of clinical methods. N. Y., Birmingham & Co., 1884. 285 p. O. cl., $1.50.

Brown, Susan Anna. How the ends met. Bost., Ja. R. Osgood & Co., 1885 [1884]. 64 p. S. pap., 50 c.

The author of "The book of forty puddings," and "Mrs. Gilpin's frugalities" presents a practical story of a young couple with reduced income, who were forced to economize in order to make the ends meet; contains many useful hints for young housekeepers.

Burnett, C. H., M.D. The ear: its anatomy, physiology, and diseases. 2d ed., rev. and rewritten. Phil., H. C. Lea's Son & Co., 1884. 585 p. O. cl., $4; leath., $5.

Burroughs, J. Fresh fields. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1885 [1884]. 2+298 p. S. cl., $1.50.

To an intense love of nature, an accurate knowledge of its various sciences, and a healthy, happy spirit, Mr. Burroughs adds wide literary culture, the art of criticism, and a simplicity of style that make his little volume very enjoyable. He finds his "fresh fields" in the British Isles, and gives sketches of, Nature in England; English woods; In Carlyle's country; A hunt for the nightingale; English and American song-birds; Impressions of some English birds; In Wordsworth's country; A glance at British wild flowers; British fertility; A Sunday in Cheyne Row; and At sea.

Carey, Miss Aimee. Heliotrope; or, the soldier's legacy: a novel. Balt., [Miss Aimee Carey.] 1884. 386 p. il. D. cl.

The scene of the story is Baltimore. "Heliotrope," the daughter of Colonel Gilmar, has the task imposed upon her by her dying father, of finding his erring son, and giving him a father's last message, with his unsullied sword. The brave girl has to encounter many dangers before her dauntless courage is rewarded; but finally fulfils her mission by finding her brother and giving him the soldier's legacy to his first-born. Quite sensational in plot and incidents.

Century (The) illustrated monthly magazine. V. 27 and 28. New ser., v. 5 and 6: Nov., 1883, to Oct., 1884, [inclusive]. N. Y., The Century Co., [1884]. Ea. 8+960 p. il. O. cl., $3; $3.50; hl. rus., $4.50.

Contains the whole of "Dr. Sevier," by Geo. W. Cable; Henry James's "Lady Barberina" and "The impressions of a cousin;" "An average man," by Robert Grant; the conclusion of "The bread-winners;" three of Stockton's short stories—"His wife's deceased sister," "The reversible landscape," and "The remarkable wreck of the Thomas Hyke;" two by J. S. of Dale—"Mrs. Knollys" and "A first love-letter;" Miss Litchfield's "One chapter" and "The price I paid for a set of Ruskin;" Ivory Black's "Rose Madder" and "An effect in yellow;" Janvier's "Pancha;" Bunner's "A red silk handkerchief;" Benjamin's "Cruise of the Alice Mary;" and much more interesting and instructive reading matter and the usual wealth of illustrations.

Chatterbox; edited by J. Erskine Clarke. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, [1884]. 4+412 p. il. O. bds., $1.25; cl., $2.25.

The authorized reprint from the original English ed. Full of pictures, including a colored frontispiece. The usual amount of stories, etc.

- Dorr, Julia C. R. Bermuda: an idyl of the summer islands. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1884. 6+148 p. maps, S. cl., $1.25.
The germ of this book was an article called "Bermudian days," that appeared in the Atlantic Monthly for Dec., 1883. It is incorporated in this volume, which goes more fully into life in Bermuda. Mrs. Dorr and her son went there on a three months' visit in search of health, and she tells, in a charmingly off-hand style, the few events of their journey, and their unexciting life while on the island. The book is most readable, giving one quite a longing to get out of the "hurly-burly" into the peaceful paradise it depicts. There is a chapter of useful information for the prospective traveller, and two good maps.

Collection of witty jests and stories, taken from literary memoirs, biographies, and the conversations of noted wits; arranged chronologically by periods.
- Ewing, R. Hand-book of agriculture. N. Y., Orange Judd Co., 1884. D. flex. cl., 30 c.
- Floyd, N. J. Thorns in the flesh: a romance of the war and Ku Klux periods; a voice of vindication from the South, in answer to "A fool's errand," and other slanders. N. Y., Wilson & Ellis, 1884. 607 p. il. D. cl., subs., $2; gilt, $2.50.
The author being a Southerner by birth and education, of course writes from a Southern standpoint; he is a near relative of Gen. John B. Floyd, Secretary of War under President Buchanan, and has the record of having distinguished himself under Gen. Lee in the late war. His purpose is to vindicate the South, and to show the "thorns" that exasperated the Southern people during the struggle following the war.
- Fothergill, J. Milner, M.D. A brief treatise on therapeutics; ed. for the U. S. Pharmacopœia, by W: H. Rouse, M.D.; with the addition of chapters on diet for the sick, by Mrs. Emma Drast. Detroit, Mich., The Illustrated Med. Jour. Co., 1884. 640 p. S. cl., $1.
Designed for students and young doctors; gives in a brief space and in simple language directions for the treatment of ordinary diseases.
- Fothergill, Jessie. Peril: a novel. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1884. 6+437 p. S. (Leisure hour ser., no. 161.) cl., $1.
Peril is the name given the heroine by her father, because she was born during a violent storm at sea and cost him the life of his idolized wife. Peril is adopted by her grandfather, and brought up with her cousin Hugh, whose father is also dead, in a household ruled by a poor relation, who loves Hugh and hates Peril. By a combination of circumstances, brought about by Peril's own wilful revenge upon her cousin for loving another woman, Peril is made heiress of her grandfather's fortune. The whole plot of the story turns upon her various attempts to return this fortune to him and his absolute refusal to receive it at her hands. The scene is laid in a large cotton-manufacturing town in England, and at times in one of the loveliest parts of Wales. Mrs. Fothergill's hand has lost none of the cunning that made "The first violin," "Probation," "The Wellfields," etc., such successful delineations of human nature and human life.

Francillon, R. E. Face to face: a fact in seven fables. N. Y., Harper, [1884]. 37 p. Q. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., no. 425.) pap., 15 c.

Patience Blackthorn was the daughter of an English yeoman; after the mysterious disappearance of her betrothed, who promised to pay the mortgage on "Leys Croft," her father's farm, she consented to marry Enoch Marrish if he would withdraw his claim on the land; meeting her former lover "face to face" she was saved from self-sacrifice as the clergyman was reading the marriage ceremony.

Froude, Ja. Anthony. Thomas Carlyle: a history of his life in London, 1834-1881. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1884. Library ed., 2 v., $4; Cheap ed., D. cl., $1.50.

Giberne, Agnes. Old umbrellas; or, Clarrie and her mother. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., 1884. 6+147 p. il. D. cl., 90 c.

Clarrie's mother had been disowned by her father for marrying against his will; consequently, on the death of her husband, her only means of support was the small sum earned for her services as needlewoman, with a pittance brought in by her father-in-law, who mended "old umbrellas." Her father finally relents, just in time to save her from dire necessity.

Giberne, Agnes. Beryl and Pearl. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., 1884. 4+373 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The story of two orphans—Beryl and Pearl—from childhood to girlhood, told in an interesting way, for young readers.

Gilman, Arthur. Tales of the pathfinders. Bost., D. Lothrop & Co., [1884]. 226 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Sketches of the thrilling adventures of these early American explorers, told in chronological order, from the discovery of the continent almost to the time of the Revolutionary War.

Gilmore, Ernest. The Blakes and the Blooms; or, what can be done by earnest hearts and willing hands. Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1884]. 287 p. il. S. cl., $1.

The Blakes and Blooms were two distinct families, with the one aim of helping others by their kind words and charitable deeds.

Gobineau, Count A. de. Typhaines Abbey: a tale of the twelfth century; tr. by C. D. Meigs, M.D. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1884]. 3-438 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 434.) pap., 25 c.

Green, Sanford M. A treatise on the practice of the courts of common law of the State of Michigan; with an appendix of precedents. 2d ed. 2 v. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1884. 11+840; 5+772 p. O. shp., $11.50.

Guthrie, F. Anstey. The black poodle, and other tales. N. Y., Appleton, 1884. 4+269 p. 1 il. D. pap., 50 c.

Out of these ten stories, three are especially for children, viz., "The story of a sugar prince," "A toy tragedy," and "A farewell appearance." "The black poodle," "The return of Agamemnon," "The wraith of Barnum," "An undergraduate's aunt," "The Siren," "The curse of the Catafalques," and "Accompanied on the flute," are all bright, humorous tales, full of the quaint fancies that made "Vice versa" so popular. They have all appeared in English magazines.

Hamilton, Frank H., M.D. A practical treatise on fractures and dislocations. 7th ed. Phil., H: C. Lea's Son & Co., 1884. 1005 p. O. cl., $4.50.

Harper's young people, 1884. N. Y., Harper, 1884. 6+832 p. il. F. cl., $3.50.

Contains, in the way of serials, the conclusion of "The boy explorers in Central Asia," the whole of "The ice queen," by Ernest Ingersoll, and "Left behind," by the author of "Toby Tyler," and a greater part of "Wakulla," by Kirk Munroe. Also an immense number of short stories, poems, instructive papers, puzzles, etc., etc. The volume is profusely illustrated as usual by our best artists.

Harlow, W. B., comp. An introduction to early English literature from the lay of Beowulf to Edmund Spenser. Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1884. 138 p. S. (School bulletin publications.) cl., 75 c.

Prose and poetical selections, with brief explanatory and biographical introductions.

Harrison, Mrs. Burton. The old-fashioned fairy-book; il. by Miss Rosina Emmet. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1884. 20+343 p. il. S. cl., $2.

A collection of new fairy stories, modelled and written after the old plan, which cannot fail to attract the child lovers of fairy lore. The front page has an appropriate poem by Thackeray, entitled "Fairy days." The illustrations, by Miss Emmet, are a very enjoyable feature of the book; in fact, even the cover seems to be designed with the view of pleasing, and has quaint and fanciful figures scattered over it.

Hatfield, Edwin F., D.D. The poets of the church; a series of biographical sketches of hymn-writers; with notes on their hymns. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1884]. 4+717 p. O. cl., $3.

This series of biographical sketches of hymn-writers of all countries and all ages, was the last contribution of Dr. Hatfield to hymnology—a subject that deeply interested him during his ministry of over half a century. They are arranged in alphabetical order, are written in a very engaging manner, and all contain information and notes regarding the most celebrated hymns of the subjects of the sketches. A very complete index of hymns. A handsomely printed work on fine paper, with wide margins, top gilt, but otherwise uncut edges.

Havergal, Frances Ridley. Ivy leaves: selections from poems of Frances Ridley Havergal. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., 1884. No paging. Tt. cl., 40 c.

Hays, Mrs. W. J. The adventures of Prince Lazybones, and other stories. N. Y., Harper, 1885 [1884]. 4-271 p. il. sq. S. (Harper's young people ser.) cl., $1.
"Phil's Fairies," "Florio and Florella," and "Boreas

Bluster's Christmas present," together with the story from which the little book takes its title, form the contents. Mrs. Hays has written four good old-fashioned fairy tales that children will understand, even to the little moral they each set forth. The book is a pretty one, in a dainty cadet blue cover, with dark blue and silver stampings.

Herman, Dr., Klein, J., and Thomé, Dr. God's glorious creation; or, the mighty marvels of earth, sea and sky; the earth's place in the universal plan; wonders of the water, of the land and atmosphere; from the German of J. Minshull. N. Y., Ward, Locke & Co., [1884]. 13+376 p. il. O. cl., $3.50.

This volume and the one following supplement each other; the titles fully set forth the contents and aim of both. They are written in a popular and attractive style, and illustrated profusely throughout, many of the pictures being full page.

Herman, Dr., Klein, J., and Thomé, Dr. The creator's wonders in living nature; or, marvels of life in the animal and vegetable kingdoms: organic life in all parts of the world, on land and in the ocean; from the German by J. Holder, C. F., and Holder, J. B., M.D. Elements of zoölogy. N. Y., Appleton, 1884. 10+385 p. il. D. (Appletons' science textbooks.) cl., $1.50.

The design of the present work (intended as a text-book for schools and academies of all grades), has been "to present, in concise and plain language, and in the light of the latest research and investigation, the life-histories of the various groups that constitute the animal kingdom." Technical terms have only been employed where there was no simple equivalent, and the long tables of classification and formulæ, that can only be understood after a complete mastery of biological knowledge, have been omitted, as tending to divert the attention of the student from the real issue. Glossary. Index.

Holmes, Mrs. Mary J. Christmas stories. N. Y., G. W. Carleton & Co., 1884. Por. D. cl., $1.50.

Janet, Paul. Elements of morals; with special application of the moral law to the duties of the individual and of society and the state; tr. by Mrs. C. R. Corson. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., [1884]. 5+353 p. D. cl., $1.25.

President White, of Cornell University, suggested to Mrs. Corson the translation of this book, and its remodelling as a text-book for schools and colleges in the study of ethics. Instructors in moral science have often expressed a desire for an elementary and practical text-book on the subject. The "scholarly and methodical arrangement, the clear and direct reasoning, the felicitous examples and illustrations" make Janet's work singularly interesting. It clearly teaches man's duties, and the application of the moral law to these duties. Paul Janet is a religious moralist; he cannot conceive morals without religion. He holds with Kant that practical faith in the existence of God is the postulate of the moral law. The two things exist or fall together. He makes clear the law of duty to the comprehension of every logical mind. Mrs. Corson's large experience as a teacher has specially fitted her to make a practical text-book, and her intimate knowledge of her mother-tongue and finished style in the English language, enable her to render the noble thoughts of Janet accurately, and at the same time to make them graceful and fluent English reading.

Jerome, Irene E. One year's sketch-book; illustrated and arranged by Irene E. Jerome; engraved and printed under the direction of G. T. Andrew. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1885 [1884]. No paging, obl. O. cl., $6; tky. mor., $12.

A series of plates, presenting original designs of the varying phases of nature during the four seasons. Each graceful sketch is accompanied by a selected verse. Most beautifully printed on one side only of heavy plate paper.

L., J. The story of a hunchback. Chic., Jansen, McClurg & Co., 1885 [1884]. 3-84 p. S.
cl., $1.

A poem, by a well-known society lady of Chicago; was at first circulated privately about four years ago when first written; it has been so much liked that the author has yielded to a general demand to give it to the public. It is a tender little tale of hopeless love, the hero being a hunchback.

Labberton, Rob. H. An historical atlas: a chronological series of one hundred and twelve maps at successive periods from the dawn of history to the present day. 7th enl. ed. N. Y., Townsend MacCoun, 1884. 8+51 p. maps, bds., Students' ed., $1.50; Library ed., hf. mor., $2.50 (corr. price).

Laboulaye, Édouard. Last fairy tales; authorized translation by Mary L. Booth. N. Y., Harper, 1885 [1884]. 14+382 p. il. D. cl., $2; gilt, $2.50.

Contains all the fairy tales written by the late Edouard Laboulaye since the publication of his last "Fairy book" to the time of his death, and embraces the fairy lore of many nations, told in a humorous manner that will prove as attractive to adults as to children. The illustrations, which are profuse and very quaint, represent mortals in all manner of dealings with the elves. The design on cover represents the "Fairest of the fair," as she appears in her father's realms, the "Green isles."

Lamb, C. Poems, plays and miscellaneous essays; with introduction and notes, by Alfred Ainger. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1885 [1884]. 22-408 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Made up from two collections issued during Lamb's lifetime, of his prose and verse—"The works of Charles Lamb," published by the Olliers in 1818, and the "Album verses," issued by Moxen, in 1830. A few additions have been made of poems and essays omitted by Lamb for various reasons. "It is as a critic that Lamb will be found at his best in this volume," says Mr. Ainger, whose notes are, as usual, a strong feature of this book.

Lancaster, J. Campbell. The extent to which the title of a purchaser to land, bought at a sheriff's sale, is affected by error in the proceedings, in Pennsylvania. Phil., Rees Welsh & Co., 1884. 8+5-92 p. O. cl., $1.

Studies in comparative mythology published by Mr. Lang in various English magazines. They are entitled: The method of folk-lore; The bull-roarer; The myth of Cronus; Cupid, Psyche, and the sun-frog; A far-travelled tale; Apollo and the mouse; Star myths; Moly and mandragora; The Kalevala; The divining rod; Hottentot mythology; Fetishism and the infinite; The early history of the family; The art of savages.

Lanier, Sidney. Poems; edited by his wife; with a memorial by W. Hayes Ward. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1884. 42+252 p. por. D. cl., $2.50.

Embraces all the poems written by Mr. Lanier during his brief life, and contributed to The Century, Harper's, Lippincott's, Appleton's, and other magazines. They are characterized by an excessive refinement of thought and fancy, a high ethical purpose, and an almost perfect rhythm. His "Hymns of the marshes," "The song of the Chattahoochee," "The revenge of Hamish," and "Corn," so much admired when first published, will afford the same pleasure again upon a re-reading. The "Memorial" gives the details of the writer's life, and his brave struggles after literary renown.

Married above her: a society romance; by a lady of New York. Phil., T. B. Peterson & Bros., [1884]. 17-566 p. sq. S. pap., 75 c.

An American novel; tells with much pathos the history of a country girl who in an unfortunate hour marries an aristocratic man of fashion whose main characteristic is unconquerable pride. Of course the society husband soon tires of his unpretending wife, and her troubles promptly begin. There are several sub-plots, all involving the love affairs of the subordinate personages, and all forming love stories of marked interest.

Marshall, Emma. Heathercliffe; or, it's no concern of mine. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., 1884. 3-128 p. il. S. cl., 60 c.

"Heathercliffe," a village where the people were wont to speak of matters that did not concern them directly as being "no concern of theirs," until the advent of Mrs. Seymour, who taught them, by her manner of living, that where they could be helpful to others, they should make the most trivial matters "their concern."

Marshall, Emma. Silver chimes; or, Olive: a story for children. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., 1884. 6+372 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The story of five little girls who had odd Christian names, the last syllable of each ending in "bel;" this fact, combined with the perfect union of the sisters, and the way in which they seemed to harmonize with their surroundings, gained for them the euphonious appellation "the silver chimes." Wilful little cousin Olive presents a marked contrast to the "five bells."

Marshall, Emma. My grandmother's pictures. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., 1884. 4+154 p. il. D. cl., 90 c.

A story told by a grand daughter, of an old lady's fanciful idea of cataloguing her family portraits with a descriptive sketch after each name.

Otis, Ja. Left behind; or, ten days a news-boy. N. Y., Harper, 1885 [1884]. 3-205 p. il. sq. S. (Harper's young people ser.) cl., $1.

Paul Weston, a boy who came from Chicago to New York, expecting to sail with his parents to Europe, strayed away from the vessel and was "left behind." He states his case to a couple of street Arabs who start him in trade with a stock of newspapers, and finally, when they see that he is dissatisfied with their mode of life, provide him with a ticket to go to Chicago. Just as they have presented him with the ticket, they hear of an advertisement to the effect that any one having tidings of the missing boy, was to call at the Fifth Avenue Hotel; they immediately start, and never stop running until they arrive breathless at the hotel in question; the clerk, surprised at the motley array of bootblacks and newsboys, called Mr. Weston, who thanked the boys in a substantial manner for their kindness to his son. Thus ended Paul's career as newsboy. The illustrations are very humorous.

Reid, Stuart J. A sketch of the life and times of the Rev. Sydney Smith: based on family documents and recollections of personal friends. N. Y., Harper, 1885 [1884]. 18+409 p. por. and il. O. cl., $3.

The information which this book offers was drawn not only from the sources indicated on the title-page, but from a number of other channels, such as Sydney Smith's relatives, and particularly his granddaughter, Miss Holland, Mr. Reid, in stating the object of his work, which is intended to supplement, and not rival the biography already before the world, says: "I have ventured to paint the figure of Sydney Smith against the background of his times, and to describe the men with whom he mingled, and the movement in which he took part. I have sought to point out the fidelity to duty in small things as well as in great, which marked every stage of his brave and busy career, and which, indeed, created the bracing atmosphere in which his entire life was spent. I have done what lies in my power, by an appeal to indisputable facts, to dispel some lingering errors concerning the character of a man whose conduct and motives have been occasionally maligned, and frequently misunderstood." The little vignette illustrations are very graceful, and the portrait from a miniature in the possession of Miss Holland, extremely interesting.

A farm-house on the Hudson, Mr. Roe's own locality, is the scene of this story, embodying a series of sketches of nature in all her many aspects and in all her many developments of fruit, flower, and living objects from January to December. Mr. Gibson's charming landscapes and flower pieces are imbued with all the delicacy and poetical feeling for which he is noted, while Mr. Dielman's figure pieces show in expression and grouping some of his best work. This "serial" has been from month to month during the past year a feature of Harper's Magazine. The volume is presented in holiday attire, in fine binding, exquisitely printed, etc.

St. Nicholas: an illustrated magazine for young folks; conducted by Mary Mapes Dodge. V. 11: pt. 1, Nov., 1883, to April, 1884; pt. 2, May, 1884, to October. N. Y., The Century Co., 1884. 2 v. 7+504; 7+505-984 p. sq. O. cl., ea. $2.50.

The leading features of the volume are as follows: "The scarlet Tanager," by J. T. Trowbridge; "Spinning-wheel stories," by Louisa M. Alcott; "Marvin and his boy hunters," by Maurice Thompson; "The land of fire," by Captain Mayne Reid; papers on "Work and play for young folk;" "Winter fun," by W. O. Sims, J. Marion, M.D. The story of my life; edited by his son, H. Marion-Sims. M.D. N. Y., Appleton, 1884. 2-471 p. D. cl., $1.50.

This autobiography tells the story of Dr. Sims's life up to the year 1864. For twenty years it has lain by, but there have been no additions made. An appendix gives many letters to his wife and some of the chief speeches made by eminent physicians upon the death of the great surgeon from pneumonia, in 1883. Contains a full account of the founding of the Woman's Hospital in New York City, and many details of practice throughout the world. The style is more technical than is quite suitable for general reading. Many leading physicians of the world are sketched with a sure and fair hand. Dr. Sims's private life was happy, his health was always delicate. He was an enthusiast in his profession.

This is a revised and enlarged edition of the author's "History of the free trade struggle in England" (published in 1882), in which he especially aims to show "that the moral of the contest is as applicable to the United States to-day as it was to England forty years ago."

United States. Supreme Court. Reports of cases, Dec. term, 1850, by B. C. Howard, rep. V. 10. 2d ed., edited, with notes and ref. to later decisions, by Stewart Rapalje. N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., 1884. 19 + 692 p. O. shp., $3.50.

Wells, Kate Gannett. About people. Bost.,

Ja. R. Osgood & Co., 1885 [1884]. 5-233 p. T. cl., $1.25.

Clever practical papers on: Average people; Individuality; Striving; Loyalty and liberality; Transitional woman; Personal influence; Who's who; Caste in American society.

Whittier, J. G. Poems. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1884]. 319 p. S. (Lovell's lib., no. 450.) pap., 20 c.

Wight, O. W., M.D. Maxims of public health. N. Y., Appleton, 1884. 176 p. S. cl., 75 c.

Dr. Wight, Health Officer of Detroit, gives in this little volume the results of six-years of personal experience in sanitary administration. He has written for the health officer, the "busy practitioner," and the "intelligent householder." He discusses carefully the two great evils of uncleanness and infection, and offers much good advice regarding preventive methods. A good index guides to the unclassified contents.

Wolf, Lucien. Sir Moses Montefiore: a centennial biography; with selections from letters and journals. N. Y., Harper, 1885 [1884]. 12+254 p. por. and il. D. cl., $1.25; Same, 63 p. Q. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., no. 420.) pap., 20 c.

The career of Sir Moses Montefiore, as depicted in this volume, is that of a man of large heart and large brain, full of philanthropic schemes for his fellow-men. He is an English Israelite, who has just completed his one hundredth year, known in London both for his wealth and benevolence.

Yates, Edmund. Fifty years of London life; memoirs of a man of the world. N. Y., Harper, 1885 [1884]. 16+444 p. por. cl., $1.75; Same, 2 pts., 62; 61 p. Q. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., nos. 421 and 422.) pap., ea. 20 c.

Edmund Yates, the author of "Black sheep," "Kissing the rod," and other successful novels, gives in this memoir a most interesting account of the theatrical and literary celebrities of London during the past fifty years. His intimacy with Dickens and Trollope affords new and characteristic stories of these famous writers. His father was for many years lessee of the old Adelphi Theatre, London. Mr. Yates's recollections of the many great actors who trod these boards, are very graphic.

UNITED STATES. Acts passed by the United States Congress relating to copyright. In "The Statutes at large." v. 1-22. 8°. Boston & Washington, 1845-83.

Summary: An act for the encouragement of learning by securing the copies of maps, charts, and books, to the authors and proprietors of such copies, during the times therein mentioned. [1st congress, 2d session, chapter 15, May 31, 1790], v. 1, p. 124-126. An act supplementary to an act, intituled "An act for the encouragement of learning [1790], and extending the benefits thereof to the arts of designing, engraving, and etching historical and other prints. [7th cong., 1st sess., chap. 36, April 29, 1802], v. 2, p. 171-172. An act to continue a copy-right to J: Rowlett. [20th cong., 1st sess., chap., 145, May 24, 1828], v. 6, p. 389. An act to amend the several acts respecting copy rights. [21st cong., 2d sess., chap. 16, Feb. 3, 1831], v. 4, p. 436-439. An act, to amend "An act to continue a copyright of J: Rowlett." [21st cong., 1st sess., chap. 13, Feb. 11, 1830], v. 6, p. 403. An act supplementary to the act [1830] to amend the several acts respecting copy-rights. [23d cong., 1st sess., chap. 157, June 30, 1834], v. 4, p. 728. An act supplementary to the act of 24th May 1828, to continue a copyright to J: Rowlett. [27th cong., 3d sess., chap. 140, March 3, 1843], v. 6, p. 897. [Enactment that of copyrighted books one copy shall be deposited with the Smithsonian Institution and one copy in the Library of Congress. 29th cong., 1st sess., chap. 179, sec. 10, Aug. 10, 1846, v. 9, p. 106. [Copyright deposits may be sent free by mail. 33d cong., 2d sess., chap. 201, sec. 5, March 3, 1855], v. 10, p. 685. An act supplemental to an act entitled "An act to amend the several acts respecting copyright," approved Feb. 3, 1831. [34th cong., 1st sess., chap. 169, Aug. 18, 1856], v. 11, p. 138-139. [Act removing copy-right deposits from the Department of State to the Department of the Interior. 35th cong., 2d sess., chap. 22, sec. 8, Feb. 5, 1859, v. 11, p. 380-381. An act to extend the right of appeal from decisions of circuit courts to the Supreme court of the United States [in copyright cases. 36th cong., 2d sess., chap. 37, Feb. 18, 1861], v. 12, p. 130-131. An act supplemental to an act entitled "An act to amend the several acts respecting copyright," approved Feb. 3, 1831, and to the acts in addition thereto and amendment thereof. [38th cong., 2d sess., chap. 126, March 3, 1865], v. 13, p. 540-541. An act amendatory of the several acts respecting copyrights. [39th cong., 2d sess., chap. 43, Feb. 18, 1867], v. 14, p. 395. An act to revise, consolidate, and amend the statutes relating to patents and copyrights. [41st cong., 2d sess., chap. 230, (sec. 86 to 110 concerning copyrights), July 8, 1870, v. 16, p. 198-217. INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT AGAIN.

THE election being over, and both political parties being relieved of the necessity of "fighting for position," Congress ought now to be able to accomplish some business legislation. The short session gives ample time for work, if not for talk. There is the further advantage that many measures come before the present session in an advanced stage, while the next long session will be that of a new Congress, at which all legislation must commence de novo.

We urged last year that the Dorsheimer bill should be put in such shape as to obviate the opposition to its passage, and we were very glad to be able to show that the sentiment of publishers in general was very strongly in its favor. If this bill can be shaped and pushed so as to obtain success, we should be most glad to see that done. The President in his message has expressed himself definitely in favor of international copyright, and although Mr. Dorsheimer has not yet determined whether the prospects of success are sufficient to justify pushing his bill, we trust the opportunity will not be thrown away. It is to be hoped that the mistakes of the previous agitation for this bill, in which publishers were told to keep "hands off" the entire question, will not be repeated at this session, but that all interests that can be marshalled in behalf of an adequate measure will be enrolled in its support.

Mr. Warner, in his letter of last year, voicing apparently the sentiment of the American Copyright League, took the position that publishers should not act in this matter, because copyright is solely an authors' question. Those who recognize an inherent property-right in brain-work will accept this position as, theoretically, entirely true. But practically, the opinion and influence of publishers have to be considered in the solution of international copyright in this country. Several publishers in Philadelphia and Boston, who are strong protectionists, have so far opposed international copyright strongly and effectively, because they looked upon it, we think mistakenly, as incompatible with the protective system.

What was called the Harper plan for international copyright, a draft treaty modified from the basis suggested by Lord Clarendon, was an attempt to solve the problem in view of this division of opinion in the publishing trade and elsewhere, and in view of the further fact that even our domestic law, like that of England, accepted certain limitations of time and registration upon the inherent property-right of an author. A good deal of unnecessary abuse was heaped upon this attempt, which commanded the support of many authors and other believers in property-right as a practicable and practical step forward, especially since certain details on which there was much division of opinion would be subject to discussion in the international conference that was proposed. The American support of it was made lukewarm in great measure by the opposition of English publishers, who certainly had much less right than American publishers to "meddle" in the matter, and who overlooked in their anxiety to hold our market the fact that the proposal was meant for the benefit of English authors rather than of English publishers. Such a treaty might have proved after all the most effective first step toward a satisfactory international copyright.

The Dorsheimer bill, which came next, did not fully meet either interest. It did not recognize inherent property-right, and, in its original form, by limiting copyright to twenty-five years within the author's life, it denied to him that insurance for his survivors which is a chief good of copyright, and to the publisher any safe basis for business investment. But it was understood later on that its promoter would consent to certain practical modifications, and we trust it may, in its new form, have the attention of the present Congress.

What those most interested in copyright should work for, is as much copyright as they can get. It is not wise for authors to refuse to take an instalment because they cannot get all. If the Dorsheimer bill should not show good signs of success, we venture to suggest the introduction of a measure which shall make a square issue on the portions really in question, without endangering the whole bill. As, for instance, a measure drafted to put in proper shape the following points:

Sec. 1. The privileges of copyright to be extended to foreign authors or their assigns, for the same periods (including renewal) and on the same conditions as to native authors, subject to the provisions or limitations hereinafter set forth.

Sec. 2. Such copyright to be granted only on works whose first edition is published in the country of origin on or after July 1, 1885.

Sec. 3. Such copyright to be granted only when claimed, and declared by registration at Washington, prior to publication in any country, on payment of the usual fee.

Sec. 4. Such copyright to be granted only to the citizens of such governments as shall extend the privileges of copyright to American citizens, to the satisfaction of the President, as declared by executive proclamation.

Sec. 5. Such copyright to be granted only on works manufactured in the United States within six months from the date of first publication in any country, and no importation of copies or editions of foreign manufacture to be permitted except by consent of the author or his assigns.

The first three sections would seem to be essential to any just scheme for international copyright. They are squarely on the same basis as our present domestic copyright. Sec. 2 avoids ex post facto interference with publishers' investments honestly made under the old lack of law. The objections that the American people will not give up the privileges to which the "cheap libraries" have accustomed them, is met, aside from the question of justice, by the fact that the whole body of past literature is already and will continue to be accessible in that shape. Sec. 3 requires from the foreign as from the native author only the minimum of cost and trouble necessary to "materialize" and secure by registry his inherent property-right in creation by the brain, while it enables the publisher, the middleman of the transaction, to search title and justify his proposed investment, and does not prevent prompt republication by uncertainty as to whether a right has been entered in a foreign capital, or is to be asserted at some indefinite future time. Sec. 4 is a concession to the considerable proportion of legislators and other people who insist on reciprocity, and are not willing to see that it is well to do a good thing whether your neighbor does it or not.

Sec. 5 is, of course, the battle-ground; the issue would be joined by the authors, who would move for its rejection. It would be supported by strong interests, largely identified with the idea of promoting manufactures by legislation. These interests are powerful, because they are backed by the whole protective system. They would very likely carry their point—but authors would be no worse off, and would certainly be better off than before. Objection will be made that any surrender of principle postpones justice indefinitely. As a matter of fact, nothing is surrendered; the question of permanent copyright, as the result of inherent property-right, can better be fought out first in our domestic law, which at present denies it. And "justice" would be all the nearer by reason of such a first step.

We do not undertake to disagree with those who hold that the tariff and not the copyright bill is the place for manufacturers to put in their claims. But they must recognize the force of opinions as well as of facts, and see also the hampering of American publishers by present tariff conditions, in which their material is taxed higher than their product. Otherwise, we would say freely, that if English authors chose to sell both markets to English publishers they could do so. Americans would still have their fair chance; they can, after all, best handle their own market. And if English publishers desired to set the precedent of buying both markets together, the American publisher could take his time at that. The system prevalent in America of paying a copyright royalty of ten per cent on the retail price fixed by the publisher, is so much superior to the English system or no-system, that many English authors would gladly deal with American offers for both markets. Few English publishers have kept friends with their authors so steadfastly as to make "complete editions" possible.

We plead, in brief, for amity between authors and publishers in the interest of any step toward international copyright in which they may generally agree. We should be glad to have the views, both of authors and publishers, as to present practicable steps. And we believe further that both parties will agree to take the final step after the results of the first are seen.

THE Postmaster-General has made a number of recommendations in his report which will commend themselves both to the public at large and to business men who make especial use of the mails. Especially important are the proposals for extending the two cent limit to a full ounce, for making carrier postage one cent, and for the proposed immediate delivery of letters in the cities for a ten cent stamp. What is always needed, however, in this department is not so much liberal new laws as more liberal interpretation of old laws in the interests of the public.

ALTHOUGH the extension of the cholera has caused a partial renewal of the quarantine on rags, the new step is much more wisely taken than the old and sweeping prohibition. The diminution of the disease in Paris will, let us hope, authorize the removal of even the present restriction at an early day.

In connection with the copyright question, the continuation of Mr. Solberg's valuable bibliography of copyright, especially under United States, will be found especially interesting. We trust to find enough interest shown in this list to authorize its issue in book form.

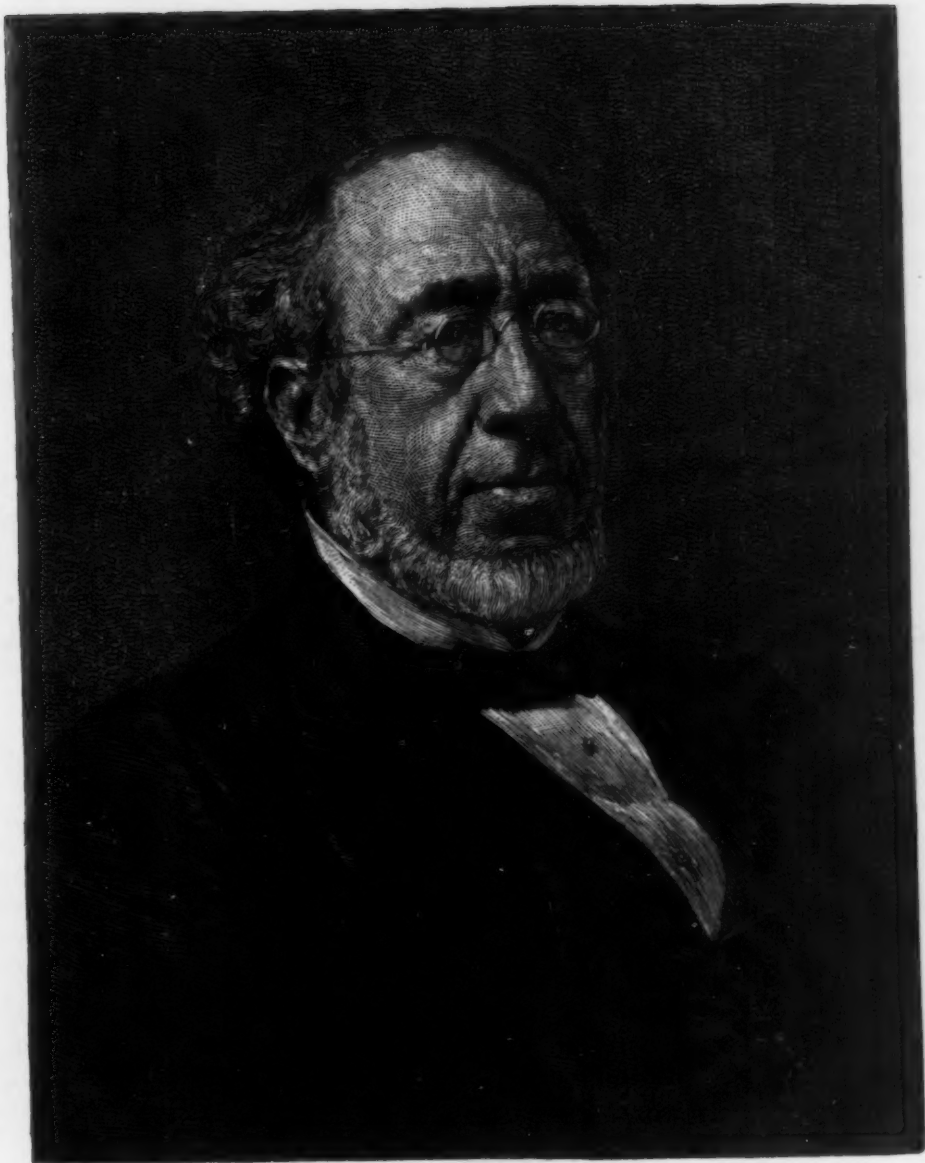

DESPITE the dulness of trade and the lateness of the season because of the Presidential campaign, we were able to present a Christmas number larger than ever before, and on the exact day of publication, though this was a week later than in 1883. We are delivering the imprint editions at the same date as last year. A few orders can yet be filled for imprint editions, if telegraphed to us at once, and we believe booksellers will find them especially advantageous in these dull times to induce purchasers to spend their money in books. We are also sending out the second part of the new American catalogue, completing the first alphabet, and giving the trade the benefit of this useful tool during the busy season.

OBITUARY.

HENRY IVISON.

HENRY IVISON, the founder of the publishing house of Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co., died of pneumonia at his residence in New York City on Wednesday, Nov. 26. Mr. Ivison was born in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1808. His parents emigrated to this country in search of a fortune in 1820, but soon returned to their native land, leaving their twelve-year old son apprenticed to William Williams of Utica, N. Y., who was then the largest bookseller in the western part of the State. Mr. Williams took the boy into his own family and thoroughly taught him his business. In 1830, Mr. Williams was asked by a friend whether he could recommend a reliable young man to open a book-store in Auburn; the professors and students of Auburn Theological Seminary being desirous of having a well-kept store in that town. Six months later, Mr. Ivison, with the pecuniary assistance of the friend who suggested the enterprise, began business for himself in Auburn, and by industry and business talent of a rare order succeeded in building up for himself a very large trade. Between the years 1835 and 1845, the question of education and the public school system, received much attention from the leading men in the country. Mr. Ivison was deeply interested, especially in its bearing upon school books. He had made the acquaintance of Mark H. Newman, a successful publisher of New York City, who, after repeated efforts, had accomplished the publication of the first connected and graded series of spelling and reading books. Mr. Newman induced

Mr. Ivison to leave Auburn and enter into partnership with him under the firm name of Mark H. Newman & Co. In 1852 the firm became Newman & Ivison but the senior partner died during the year, leaving the business entirely in Mr. Ivison's hands. In a few years' time Mr. Ivison bought out the entire interest of the concern which then already numbered such authors as Thompson, McElligott, Fasquelle, Woodbury, Wells, Bradbury and Hastings, and took in as partner Mr. H. F. Phinney of Cooperstown, N. Y., a son-in-law of James Fenimore Cooper, and an experienced bookseller. The firm became Ivison & Phinney, later Ivison, Phinney, Blakeman & Co., and finally Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor and Co., under which name it ranks as one of the largest school-book publishing concerns in the world. In the spring of 1882, Mr. Ivison retired from the active business of the firm, transferring his interest to his son David B. Ivison, who had been in the partnership since 1863. Since then Mr. Ivison has continued to visit the business almost daily during the winter months, but the summers have been spent at his country seat in Stockbridge, Mass. At the time of Mr. Ivison's retirement, one of his partners wrote: "Mr. Ivison's hale and vigorous age gives promise of long years of hearty enjoyment of the comforts and compensations of life. Mr. Ivison's actual retirement from business has been gradual, and he has left his impress so deeply upon the character of his house, that his retirement will make no perceptible difference in its policy or in its relations to the business and educational public. To his partners, the change means both more and less than would appear to any one not intimately acquainted with the firm. It means more in that it is the formal sundering of one of the most delightful business relations that could possibly be conceived; and it means less in that they are assured that, so long as Mr. Ivison lives, they can on any and every occasion avail themselves of his strong support and wise counsel." And on the same occasion the New York Times said: "Among the characteristics of Mr. Ivison's business life, the finest qualities of hand and heart were ever conspicuous. To his partners and employes he was like the head of a family, and his sunny influence pervaded every department of the concern." Mr. Ivison was an active member of the Presbyterian Church and a faithful worker in many worthy charities. At the time of his death he was a member of Dr. John Hall's congregation. Mr. Ivison leaves a widow, one son and two married daughters. He would have celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday on Christmas day. The portrait which we give elsewhere was made a few years since.

THE PRESIDENT ON COPYRIGHT AND ART DUTIES.

(From President Arthur's Message to Congress.)

THE question of securing to authors, composers, and artists copyright privileges in this country in return for reciprocal rights abroad is one that may justly challenge your attention. It is true that conventions will be necessary for fully accomplishing this result, but until Congress shall by statute fix the extent to which foreign holders of copyright shall be here privileged, it has been deemed inadvisable to negotiate such conventions. For this reason the United States were not represented at the recent conference at Berne.

Much anxiety has lately been displayed by various European governments, and especially by the Government of Italy, for the abolition of our import duties upon works of art. It is well to consider whether the present discrimination in favor of the productions of American artists abroad is not likely to result, as they themselves seem very generally to believe it may, in the practical exclusion of our painters and sculptors from the rich fields for observation, study and labor which they have hitherto enjoyed.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE new illustrated Magazine of Western History, already launched, will be published by Robert Clarke & Co., Cincinnati.

THE Bibliographer is to be incorporated in a new journal of similar character, entitled Book Lore, which is announced by Mr. Elliot Stock.

FREDERIC HARRISON is preparing to criticise Froude's "Life of Carlyle" very sharply in the January number of the North American Review.

Science for Nov. 14 contains a minute and exhaustive map of the country of the Soudan and of Nubia. Gen. Stone has an article in the same number on "The Navigation of the Nile."

A HOST of readers will be glad to learn that Dr. Holmes is preparing a series of papers for next year's Atlantic Monthly, under the general name of "The New Portfolio."

BY special arrangement, eighteen new poems by Mr. Algernon Charles Swinburne appear in the issue of The Independent for December 4th, occupying nearly four pages of its space.

WILLIAM BLACK will begin a serial story entitled "White Heather," in Harper's Bazar this month. The scene is laid in Scotland, though the principal characters introduced are Americans.

Frank Leslie's Fact and Fiction for the Chimney Corner is the title of a new illustrated weekly which will contain good fiction, poetry and gossip about the fashions, society news, dramatic news, etc.

The Publisher and Bookbuyers' Journal: a Weekly Record of Current Literature, is the title of a new paper devoted to the interests of English publishers, the first number of which has just been issued by Wyman & Son of London.

Harper's Weekly for December 13th is to be a special holiday number, beautifully illustrated, and full of the spirit of Christmas. Mr. Pyle, Mr. Frost, and Mr. Dielman have contributed some clever drawings.

A NOVEL feature of the Magazine of American History this month, is the beginning of a series of interesting papers on "Political Americanisms," by Col. Charles L. Norton. The present paper reaches only to the word "Bourbon." The series on "Unsuccessful Candidates for the Presidency" is concluded.

The Book Worm is the title of a small sixteen-mo pamphlet, published monthly by John B. Alden, 393 Pearl St., N. Y. It contains chiefly advertisements of his own publications—the reading matter portion being made up of chapters from books either just published by him or in press. The first issue contains in addition to the other matter a page of aphorisms from Seneca, Montaigne and others.

Shakesperiana, the able magazine devoted exclusively to Shakespeare literature, published by the Leonard Scott Publishing Co., of Philadelphia, enters upon its second year, we are glad to learn, with the most flattering assurances of permanent success. The value of the magazine is to be further increased by the addition of a "College Department" with full reports of the more valuable lectures delivered in the colleges of Europe and America, prize essays, examination papers, etc., which will place much hitherto inaccessible matter in the hands of the students.

THE Christmas issue of The Book Buyer, published by Charles Scribner's Sons, is a creditable one in every particular. It contains contributions by Donald G. Mitchell, J. D. Champlin, Jr., W. M. Laffan, R. H. Stoddart, Roger Riordan, G. P. Lathrop, H. H. Boyesen, H. C. Bunner, F. R. Stockton and other well known writers, and is very fully illustrated with a selection from the leading books of the year, and a frontispiece engraved especially for this issue by G. Kruell. The technical part—paper, presswork and general get up—is fully up to the high standard of its literary matter.

The Century's War Series was begun by a Confederate contributor, General Beauregard. In the next number General Lew Wallace, of the Federal Army, will write of Fort Donelson. In January, Rear-Admiral Walke will give his reminiscences of the "Engagements of the Western Flotilla." Admiral Walke, it will be remembered, was commander of the Carondelet, which fought at Belmont, Fort Henry, Fort Donelson and elsewhere, and ran the batteries at Island Number Ten. Captain James B. Eads (who built the gun-boats) will contribute to the same number a paper on "Recollections of Foote and the Gun-boats." General Grant's "Shiloh" will appear in the February number, with a biographical sketch of General Albert Sidney Johnston, commander of the Confederate forces at Shiloh, who was killed in that engagement, written by his son, Colonel William Preston Johnston. This article includes an account of the battle from a Confederate point of view.

The Youth's Companion last December offered $3000, divided into eight prizes, for the best and second best boys', girls', humorous and adventure stories, the competition for which remained open until May. Upward of 6000 manuscripts were submitted from writers on both sides of the ocean. The prize stories will be published during the early part of next year. New serial stories are also promised by J. T. Trowbridge, Mrs. Oliphant, Alphonse Daudet, Katherine S. Macquoid, Edgar Fawcett, Frank R. Stockton, etc., and the "Science and Education" department will be looked after by James Anthony Froude, Prof. Tyndall, Max Müller, Canon Farrar, T. Sterry Hunt, E. A. Freeman, Richard A. Procter, E. P. Whipple, James Payn, Edward Stanwood, and others. Thinking our readers may take interest in the names of the fortunate winners of the prizes, and the works which gained them, we submit the list herewith. Boys' Stories: 1st prize, $500, Angelo J. Lewis, London, Eng. Title of story, "Better Than Victory."—2d prize, $250, Mary Bassett Hussey, Brazil, Ind. Title of story, "Davy." Girls' Stories: 1st prize, $500, Mrs. J. E. Moore, Thomaston, Me. Title of story, "Miss Bashby."—2d prize, $250, Patience Stapleton, Denver, Col. Title of story, "Byer's Folly." Adventures: 1st prize, $500, E. W. Thomson, Montreal, Can. Title of story, "Petherick's Peril."—2d prize, $250, Charlotte M. Vaile, Denver, Col. Title of story, "Snow-bound in the Mountains." Humorous: 1st prize, $500, Frank R. Stockton, Philadelphia, Pa. Title of story, "An Unhistoric Page."—2d prize, $250, H. J. Adamson, Hartford, Conn. Title of story, "Hile Hardack's Newfoundland Pup."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE Boston Traveller is authority for the report that General B. F. Butler is about to publish a volume of reminiscences.

CARMEN SYLVA is about to bring out a new volume of poems, to be called "Mein Rhein." This book, which will be published at Leipsic, is illustrated by E. Dopler and other German artists.

VERNON LEE, the author of "Euphorion" and of the sketch of the Countess of Albany in the Famous Women Series, has written a novel with the title "Miss Brown." The real name of this author is Miss Violet Paget. She was born in France of English parents and has always lived on the Continent. During the winter she lives in Florence.

MR. RUSKIN's proposed autobiography will be made up of a revised and enlarged collection of the scraps of personal reminiscence which have been given from time to time in Fors Clavigera. The author is now busy with the proof-sheets of "Coeli Enarrant," studies of cloud form, and "In Montibus Sanctis," studies of mountain form, both of which are excerpts, collected and completed from his "Modern Painters."

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

WM. R. JENKINS, 850 6th Ave., N. Y., has issued a new catalogue of French Books of Importations, as well as of his own publications, (57 p., 16mo.)

BURROWS, BROTHERS & CO., Cleveland, O., send out under the title of "Holiday Chimes" a neat catalogue of the latest holiday books and other goods. Illustrations are scattered the text through, and the last five pages give interesting statistical information and a permanent calendar for the century. The cover of dark olive has a pretty design of ivy leaves, a bell and clock on the front. (64 p., 24mo.)

THE latest catalogue of Geo. J. Coombes, 5 E. 17th St., N. Y., comprises some unusually interesting books, among them Barclay's "Ship of Fools," a blank letter folio, (1570,) bound by Bedford; the first Aldine edition of Dante in a portable form, that of 1502; the "Patissier François" of the Elzvirians, (1655;) a copy of the Japan edition of Mistral; the first edition of Pine's "Horace," and the first edition of Spencer's "Faerie Queene."

CASSELL & CO. have issued a sumptuous "Illustrated Catalogue of Fine Art and Juvenile Publications suitable for the Holidays," selected from their large and varied stock. The catalogue is a large quarto (13 x 10 in.) printed on highly finished paper of extra quality, and illustrated, as goes without saying, with the choicest samples of their fine art and juvenile books. The compilation and arrangement show the master hand in every detail, and the catalogue will easily rank as one of the most attractive issued in many years.

TRADE CATALOGUES.—Robert Clarke & Co., Cincinnati, issue a "Select List of British Periodicals," with the prices at which they are furnished by them.—H. B. Garner, Phila., have just ready the "Fourth Supplement to Classified Catalogue of Theological, Religious and Miscellaneous Books," published September, 1880. (24 p., 8vo.)—Thomas W. Hartley & Co., Phila., issue a "Catalogue of Books, chiefly theological," published and for sale by them. (12 p., 8vo.)—Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago, have ready "Catalogue (No. 6) of Imported Books, mainly in elegant bindings, including many finely illustrated and rare books." (77 p., 16mo.)—Ig. Kohler, Phila., has issued a new catalogue of the German and English books published and for sale by him. (32 p., 16mo.)—Henry C. Lea's Son & Co., Phila., issue a handy list of "Medical, Surgical and Scientific Books and Periodicals," published by them. (12 p., 24mo.)—George R. Lockwood & Son, 812 Broadway, N. Y., have issued a "Catalogue of Miscellaneous Books in every Department of Literature in various editions and bindings suitable for library, and household," for sale by them. (28 p., 8vo.)

CATALOGUES OF SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Received from H. B. Garner, Phila., "A Catalogue (No. IV.) of Second-hand Theological Books, comprising Sermons, Commentaries, Doctrinal Treatises, Biographies, etc." (24 p., 8vo.)—From Henry Gray, Cathedral Yard, Manchester, Eng., "A Descriptive Catalogue, with collations and notes of rare and curious books comprising works on antiquities, scarce local publications, books relating to America, witchcraft, magic, etc.," which formerly belonged to the library of James Crossley. (112 p., 8vo.)—From Francis P. Harper, 4 Barclay St., N. Y., "A Catalogue of Rare and Standard Books, including Americana, Rebellion and English Works." (Dated, November, 8 p., 8vo.)—From George D. Morse, Haverhill, Mass., "Catalogue (No. 9) of Old, Rare and Curious Books, Town Histories, Genealogies, Biographies, Travels, etc." (24 p., 8vo.)—From Charles L. Woodward, 78 Nassau St., N. Y., "Catalogue (No. 28) of Books and Pamphlets Relating to America." Mr. Woodward always adds enough curious and valuable information concerning the books he offers for sale, that it is worth while to preserve his catalogues for more than one reason.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AKRON, IND.—Milo Bright, bookseller, has sold out to Aaron Johnson.

BOSTON, MASS.—The Offices of the New England Division of the Mutual News Co. were opened at 175 Devonshire and 36 Arch sts. on November 25. In the evening, numerous guests were present upon invitation, and a lunch served. John Daly is the General Manager.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COL.—The firm of Howbert Bros., booksellers and stationers, has been dissolved by mutual consent, Messrs. Edgar Howbert and C. W. Howbert retiring. Frank S. Thayer, late of Thayer and Wadham and The Cross Pen Co., of Boston, and Irving Howbert, of Colorado Springs, will continue the business under the firm name of Thayer & Howbert.

ELYRIA, OHIO.—S. W. Belding, dealer in books, has sold out.

FAYETTE, IA.—John Rhoades, bookseller, has sold out to Bullock & Walker.

GARNETT, KAN.—Jacob Bronston, bookseller and stationer, has sold out to H. B. Sparks & Co.

HARRISBURG, PA.—Thomas S. Wilcox, bookseller and stationer, has removed his business from 33 N. 3d St. to the Trust Building, No. 224 Market St.

HENRIETTA, TEX.—R. Y. Mangum, dealer in books, has gone out of business.

INDEPENDENCE, MO.—G. R. Hotsinpeller, bookseller, is about to sell out.

JAMESTOWN, DAKOTA.—S. P. Strout, dealer in books, etc., has sold out.

LINDSBURY, KAN.—Pearson & Swenson, booksellers, have dissolved partnership. Pearson & Eberhardt continue the business.

MARYSVILLE, KY.—The book-store of J. T. Kackley & Co. was partially destroyed by fire. The loss is not given, but the insurance is $10,000, which probably covers the loss.

MILLBROOK, MICH.—E. H. Kendrick, bookseller, has been succeeded by Gates & Wilcox.

NEVADA CITY, CAL.—G. W. Welch, bookseller and stationer, has established a branch store at San José.

NEW YORK CITY.—James W. Bouton has, we regret to note, made an assignment to William H. Post, giving preferences for $28,652, among which were Odells & Mills, $4000; Anna Moore, $13,652; H. J. Johnson, $2313; H. J. Horn, $2500; T. Horn, $2500. He has been in business for over twenty-seven years, his principal line being the importation of rare and fine books, though occasionally he issued a special edition of his own publishing. He carried a large stock, valued at over $100,000, and was estimated to be worth over $150,000. The assignee thinks that there are enough assets to pay the creditors in full and leave a surplus. The business was established in 1861, the firm being J. W. Bouton & Co. The firm dissolved in 1868, and since that time Mr. Bouton has carried on the business alone.

NORTH ADAMS, MICH.—C. H. Rowley, bookseller, stationer and newsdealer, has removed his stock from Morenci, Mich., to this place.

OGDEN, UTAH.—Cannon & Volkes, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership. Cannon & Sons continue.

PALATKA, FLA.—F. C. Cochrane, booksellers and stationer, has been burned out.

SEATTLE, W. T.—W. H. Pumphrey, formerly of Pumphrey & Louman, has opened a book and stationery store under the firm name of W. H. Pumphrey & Co. He intends doing a jobbing and retail business.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE first edition of Vedder's remarkable illustrations to Omar Khayyám's "Rubaiyat" is already exhausted.

W. J. SHUEY, Dayton, O., has published a "Life of Rev. William Otterbein," the founder of the United Brethren Church, by Prof. A. W. Drury.

D. & J. SADLIER & Co. have in press, "A Holy Mendicant, or, Life of Benedict Joseph Labre," translated from the French of the Abbé Solassol. They have just published "Maurice Tyrone, or, the Fair Saxon," by Justin McCarthy.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD desire to announce that the price of Hervey's "Memoirs of the Reign of George the Second" is $12 for the three volumes. By an oversight the price was omitted in their advertisement in our Christmas issue.

CUPPLES, UPHAM & Co. have in press a society novel by an anonymous author, entitled "The Widow Wyse." It deals with certain interesting phases of Boston life, some of the principal characters being near enough portraits to be recognizable.

H. C. BAIRD & Co. have nearly ready, an important American work on "The Manufacture of Leather," a description of all the processes for the tanning, currying and finishing of leather, by Charles T. Davis. It will be illustrated by 300 engravings.

CASSELL & COMPANY (Limited) will soon publish in book form the anonymous novel, "Trajan," which was begun in the Manhattan, but carried through only twelve chapters. The author has not yet decided to print his name on the title-page.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. have in press, "Episodes of My Second Life," by A. Glenga, a new and revised edition of Wormley's "Micro-Chemistry of Poisons;" "Redemption In Prophecy" by Rev. John G. Wilson, and a new novel translated from the German by Mrs. A. L. Wistar, entitled "A Penniless Girl."

GEORGE H. BUCHANAN & Co., Phila., have recently issued a reprint from the English edition of Paul Allardyce's practical handbook for writers, entitled "Stops, or, How to Punctuate." They have also issued a new and tasteful edition of the old favorite, "No Sect in Heaven," by Mrs. E. H. J. Cleveland.

GEO. A. MOSHER & Co. Syracuse, N. Y. have published a "C. L. S. C. Gem Calendar for 1885," a block calendar for Chautauquans, with selections for every day in the year, prepared by Miss Minnie A. Barney. It contains appropriate selections for all special and memorial days, also, golden text for each Sunday. (50 cents).

LEON & BROS., booksellers, under the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, have in press "A Special Priced Catalogue of First Editions of the Most Prominent American Authors," and in order to make the same as nearly perfect as possible, would be grateful for any notes or suggestions, or other bibliographical material from collectors.

THOMAS WHITTAKER announces a work entitled "Revelation. Universal and Special," by the Rev. Dr. W. W. Olssen, also "The Spirits in Prison and Other Studies on the Life after Death," by Dr. E. H. Plumptre, and "Good Friday," by H. S. Holland. Mr. Whittaker has just issued in one volume a new edition of Cheyne's "Prophecies of Isaiah."

MACMILLAN & Co. announce that the first volume of Leslie Stephens's "Dictionary of National Biography," extending from the name "Abbadie" to the name "Anne," will be published the first day of the coming year, and that further volumes will be issued at intervals of three months. It is hoped that the work can be completed in fifty volumes.

JAMES ANGLIM & Co., Washington, D. C., will publish in January "The Shakespearian Referee," a cyclopædia of four thousand two hundred words, obsolete, and modern, occurring in the plays of Shakespeare, with original and other explanations, commentaries, annotations, etymologies, etc., and translations of all the Latin, French Italian, and Spanish words occurring in the plays, by J. H. Siddons.

ROBERT M. LINDSAY, Philadelphia, will issue a limited edition of J. Parker Norris's articles on "Portraits of Shakespeare," which attracted considerable attention when they first appeared in Shakespeariana. The volume will be in small quarto form, on fine laid paper, and "illustrated by twenty of the very best obtainable phototype reproductions" from choice engravings in Mr. Norris's own collection, and by twelve engravings on wood.

P. BLAKISTON, SON & Co., Philadelphia, announce as nearly ready "Surgical Handicraft," a manual of surgical manipulations, minor surgery, and other matters connected with the work of house-surgeons and surgical dressers, by Walter Pye, M.D., member of the Royal College of Surgeons of London, with 208 illustrations. They have in press, to be published simultaneously with the London edition, a new book, by Prof. Lionel S. Reale, on "Urinary and Renal Diseases."

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just published a new edition of "Herrick's Town Officer," entirely rewritten, in which is detailed accurately and intelligibly the powers, duties, and liabilities of town and parish officers in Massachusetts, with forms and parliamentary rules for conducting town and other meetings. This edition is prepared upon the same plan as the former editions, stating the law as it exists at the present time, including the legislation of 1884. They have also just ready the second volume of Parkman's "Montcalm and Wolfe," completing the work.

JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY, Baltimore, Md., we are pleased to learn will continue for another year the excellent series of monographs begun two years ago. Special announcement will be made later. In general it may be said that the new series will include papers on local and municipal government, state and national institutions, and American economic history. The publication agency also announce that they are able to supply a limited edition of Sir William Thomson's lectures on "Molecular Dynamics," delivered before the physicists of the University in October last.

GINN, HEATH & Co. have published "Cædmon's Exodus and Daniel," by Prof. Hunt, being the second issue in the Library of Anglo-Saxon Poetry; "Elements of the Calculus," by Prof. J. M. Taylor, of Hamilton College, N. Y.; "Kingsley's Water Babies," edited by Miss J. H. Stickney, and "Greek Heroes," by same author, edited by John Tetlow, of the Girls' Latin School, Boston, in their series of Classics for Children; "Syllables of Modern Methods in Geometry," by Wm. E. Byerly, of Harvard University; and a new edition of Miss Turner's "Stories for Young Children."

THE American Bible Revision Committee, of which Dr. Philip Schaff is President, announce that the revision of the Old Testament, after fourteen years' of labor, is now completed, and that it will be published next spring by the University Presses of Oxford and Cambridge in several editions. The American committee have ordered a memorial edition in four volumes, printed on the best paper and bound in the best manner, to be inscribed in gilt letters and sent free of charge to any one who contributes $30 to the expenses of the committee. Orders for this edition must be sent to the Bible House before Dec. 31.

RAND, McNALLY & Co., Chicago, have issued "A Handbook of Things Worth Knowing," containing, in condensed shape, tables, rules, practical hints for everybody, biographical sketches, etc., and a number of colored diagrams illustrating some of the more important comparative statistics of the world; a cheap edition of Hugh Conway's novel, "Called Back;" and new editions of their Indexed County and Township Pocket maps of the States of Pennsylvania and New York. They publish this week a new sectional map of Florida, 36x48 inches, on a scale of 10 miles to the inch.

THE CATHOLIC PUBLICATION SOCIETY CO. have issued "Drifting Leaves," a dainty volume of religious poetry, by M. E. Henry; "Catholic Hymnal, Containing Hymns for Congregational and Home Use," by Rev. Alfred Young, C. S. P.; "The History of the Church of God," by Rev. B. J. Spalding; "Men and Women as they Appeared in the Far-off Time," by S. H. Burke; "A Philosophical Catechism for Beginners," by St. George Mivart; and "Reasons why we Should Believe in God, Love God and Obey God," by Peter H. Burnett, author of "The Path which led a Protestant Lawyer to the Catholic Church."

HENRY C. LEA'S SON & Co., Philadelphia, have recently published Dr. Clouston's "Clinical Lectures on Mental Diseases," to which is added an abstract of the laws of the various States and Territories relating to insanity, by Dr. Charles F. Folsom. Dr. Clouston has collected a mass of interesting and suggestive information in the form of records of cases of insanity. His book will be of use to those who are formulating theories of insanity, but he himself does not undertake to deduce from the phenomena of morbid action the conclusions to which they lead. The appendix of Dr. Folsom is calculated to be useful for purposes of reference.

HARPER & BROS. have recently issued a most interesting contribution to the study of comparative mythology in Andrew Lang's new book, entitled "Custom and Myth." They have also issued "Men of Invention and Industry," by Samuel Smiles, which is offered as a continuation of the memoirs of men of invention and industry, published some years ago in the "Lives of Engineers," "Industrial Biography," and "Self Help." The early chapters relate to the history of English shipbuilding. A chapter prepared for this volume by Mr. Harland, of Belfast, relates the origin and progress of shipbuilding in Ireland. "The Adventures of Prince Lazybones and other Stories," by Mrs. W. J. Hays, also just ready, will be found as delightful reading by the children as her former books, "Princess Idleways," etc.

THE MILTON BRADLEY CO., Springfield, Mass., in their "Students' Index and Scrap File," seem to have met the demand for some simple method and apparatus for keeping references and clippings in index form, ready at hand when wanted. It is the result of several years' thought and experiment by a practical literary worker and teacher. It is a cabinet of polished cherry with a top-lid and two drawers below. The upper compartment is furnished with a dozen large envelopes of a size to receive a sheet of letter paper. The upper drawer is divided into two compartments, with index divisions for receiving clippings. The lower drawer is similarly divided into two compartments and furnished with about 1000 fine bristol cards of uniform size separated by movable indexing partitions. It is as useful to a business office as to the library, as no index book is as good for keeping lists of customers, or any other facts, as a card index. The index is made in six different sizes, retailing from $1.75 to $5.

FUNK & WAGNALLS will shortly publish in their Standard Library a critique of Mr. Edwin Arnold's "Light of Asia" by Wm. Cleaver Wilkinson. It will be entitled "Edwin Arnold, as Poetizer and as Paganizer," and will be divided into two parts, the first dealing with the literary merit, the second with the historic merit of Mr. Arnold's poem. Taken with the fact that a new edition of "The Light of Asia" has lately been issued by the Osgoods, the indication is that a renewed discussion is to be aroused over Prince Siddartha and his work, as depicted by Mr. Arnold. They will also issue a work on "The Divorce Question" by Rev. Samuel W. Dike who is regarded as "the first authority in this country in matters relating to the family," and this work is the result of years of investigation. One of its most valuable features will be its tables of statistics compiled with much care from the most authentic sources.

ROBERTS BROS. have issued in the Famous Women Series "Mary Wollstonecraft," by Elizabeth Robins Pennell. Comparatively little has been written about the life of this remarkable woman beyond that contained in the memoirs by Wm. Godwin and C. Kegan Paul. This biography, while relying chiefly upon Godwin's memoir, is supplemented by a careful analysis of her writings and study of the period in which she lived, with some particulars regarding her last illness, never before in print. They have also published "The Making of a Man," by the late Rev. Wm. M. Baker, a sequel to "His Majesty, Myself," issued uniform with "Blessed Saint Certainty;" and "Every-Day Life and Every-Day Morals," by George Leonard Chaney; an interesting collection of essays upon art and morals, juvenile literature and morals, literature and morals, industry and morals, business and morals, stage and morals, press and morals, and other interesting topics of the day.

LEE & SHEPARD have published their magnificent work on "Orchids," with twenty-four fine illustrations in color, drawn from nature by Harriet Stewart Miner; "One Year's Sketch Book," by Irene E. Jerome, forty-six full-page illustrations of the scenes and flowers of spring, summer, autumn, and winter, by leading artists; "My Lady's Casket, or, Flowers and Jewels for her Adornment," by Eleanor W. Talbot, with many original designs in colors; "Baby's Kingdom," designed and illustrated by Annie F. Cox, a unique and handsome volume, wherein may be chronicled by the loving mother the story of the events, happenings, and cunningness attending the progress of "my baby," as a memento of grown-up days; "The Mountain Anthem—The Beatitudes in Rhythmic Echoes," by Wm. C. Richards, illustrated by Miss L. B. Humphrey, bound in cloth and Golden Floral style; "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," Bishop Heber's missionary hymn, illustrated by Guilfoye and Garrett, bound in cloth and Golden Floral; also a new line of Golden Florals in silk, comprising "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "It was the Calm and Silent Night," "Abide with Me," "Come into the Garden, Maud," "Curfew Must not Ring To-Night," and "Home, Sweet Home."

JAMES R. OSGOOD & CO. have now ready "Nathaniel Hawthorne and his Wife," by Julian Hawthorne, in two volumes, with steel portraits and vignettes. The work gives the fullest accounts of Hawthorne's ancestry and family, his boyhood, youth, courtship, and marriage, his travels and residence abroad, with facts and incidents in regard to the motives, and origin of his most famous works. They also have a limited edition of "The Light of Asia," by Edwin Arnold, with engravings from photographs of Buddhist sculptures and frescoes, two thousand years old, illustrating scenes in the life of the hero of this poem; "How the Ends Met," by Susan Anna Brown, is a thoroughly practical and interesting account of how a family, reduced in circumstances, contrived to live happily and comfortably upon a smaller salary; "The Literary Remains of the Late Henry James," edited, with an introduction, by William James, with portrait; "About People," by Kate Gannett Wells, a noteworthy book, treating, as it does, upon such subjects as "Caste in American Society," "Personal Influence," "The Transition of American Women," etc.; "The Genius and Character of Emerson," edited by Frank B. Sanborn, which contains the many lectures delivered at the Concord School of Philosophy, by eminent authors and critics, besides an historic sketch of the school—now in its seventh year—and pictures of Hillside Chapel and the Orchard House, and a new portrait of Emerson; and a new edition of "Artists of the Nineteenth Century," by Clara Erskine Clement and Laurence Hutton, fully revised to the present time of this valuable work, (two volumes in one,) containing two thousand biographical sketches of artists, with a large number of personal, historical, and artistic facts.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. have just published the third volume of the Gentleman's Magazine Library, entitled "Popular Superstitions and Traditions." Any one who knows how much curious anecdote the Gentleman's Magazine included in the volumes from 1731 to 1868, will understand that this book must be peculiarly attractive and valuable. With this appeared a new volume, by John Burroughs, entitled "Fresh Fields," containing articles mostly describing his impressions during a recent tour through England; Dr. Mitchell's "In War Time," which has appeared in the Atlantic Monthly, and attracted no little attention for its vigor and realism; "Tompkins and other Folks," a collection of short stories much above the average, by P. Denning, whose "Adirondack Stories" many readers remember with much satisfaction; a new volume, by Mr. Browning, entitled "Ferishtah's Fancies," in a more sober vein than his "Jocoseria," and brought out in uniform style with the edition of Browning which has been accumulating through many years on the catalogue of Houghton, Mifflin and Co., and their predecessors, and also in the style of the new seven-volume edition. Longfellow's "Hiawatha" is to be brought out in a school edition, with explanations of the Indian names, and with notes by a practical teacher. These aids, and the low price at which the work is put—thirty cents—will make it very available for school use. They promise some noteworthy books for next week. Dr. Holmes's Life of Emerson, for the series of American Men of Letters, cannot fail to be peculiarly valuable and attractive. Mr. Morse's Life of John Adams, in the series of American Statesmen; and Prof. Shaler's history of Kentucky, in the series of American Commonwealths, are surely books of positive and permanent worth. Johnson's work on Persia, completing his elaborate studies of Oriental Religions, is a prodigy of intelligent research and candid statement; and Miss Edith M. Thomas's poems come opportunely to reassure us that the ranks of American poets have received a genuine and welcome reinforcement.

WM. WOOD & Co. make the important announcement that they will issue shortly the "Reference Handbook of the Medical Science," which they have been for several years past organizing and arranging. It is designed that this superb work shall cover so wide a field, and embrace such a great variety of topics, as to make it of the greatest practical utility, not only to general practitioners, but also to those who are interested more particularly in special departments of medical knowledge. This work will consist of a collection of concisely written essays on all the more important topics belonging to the broad domain of medicine. Its subject matter will be alphabetically arranged, thus admitting of instant and ready reference. Kindred topics will be connected by the aid of numerous cross-references in such a manner that a person in search of information can scarcely fail to find everything he desires, and all the material which the work contains in relation to the subject under consideration. It is aimed to treat the topics in such a thorough manner that the reader will rarely, if ever, find it necessary to consult larger special treatises or monographs for the information of which he may stand in need. The number of those physicians who take an interest in the more purely scientific branches of medical knowledge is already quite large, and will undoubtedly increase as time goes on. It has, therefore, been thought advisable to devote considerable space to the more important topics belonging to the domain of anatomy, embryology, histology, physiology, physiological and pathological chemistry, pathological anatomy, climatology, and medical botany. All these topics, as well as those belonging to the more directly practical branches of medical knowledge, such as general pathology and therapeutics, surgery, gynecology, neurology, otology, ophthalmology, obstetrics, etc., have been assigned to writers who are experts in their respective departments. Woodcut illustrations of the best character will be introduced wherever the authors themselves think that they will serve to elucidate the text. Special pains have been taken to secure as large a proportion of original cuts as possible. This work, which is edited by Dr. Albert H. Buck, will be completed probably in eight imperial octave volumes of about 800 double-column pages each.

MR. J. W. CROSS has now completed the editing of "George Eliot's Life, as Related in Her Letters and Journal," and the book is passing through the press, but will probably not be published before the close of the year.

F. FISHER UNWIN, London, will publish at once a new novel by Miss Mathilda Blind, entitled "Tarantella." The plot of this novel or rather romance, is laid in 1845. The main incident takes place in Italy, and the scene is afterward transferred to Germany.

MR. W. H. MALLOCK's new work, "Atheism and the Value of Life," contains five studies in contemporary literature: "The Professor in the Pulpit;" "Tennyson Under the Shadow;" "George Eliot on the Human Destiny;" "Natural Religion;" "Atheistic Methodism."

THE English courts have granted Lord Lytton an injunction restraining the publication of his father's correspondence. The whole edition of the "Vindication" of Lady Lytton has therefore been suppressed, except some stray advance copies sent out to newspapers for review, from which liberal extracts have already been published. There is a rumor that one of these has found its way to this country, and is to be reprinted.

THE highest prize ever offered for a literary performance will be awarded in 1925 to the successful author of a simple biography. Fifty years ago, so it is reported, Gen. Arantscheff, the friend and confidential adviser of the Emperor Alexander I., deposited in the Imperial bank of Russia the sum of 50,000 rubles, which is to be allowed to accumulate at interest till the 1st of December, 1925, when the entire amount—principal and interest—is to be handed over to the author of the best work on the life and reign of Alexander I.

T. FISHER UNWIN will publish almost immediately what promises to be a very interesting volume on Charles Dickens. It is from the pen of Mr. George Dolby, and tells the story of the final reading tours in Great Britain and America, during which Mr. Dolby acted as manager and travelling companion to Dickens. The book is written from an entirely inside point of view, for the author was more closely associated with Dickens than almost any one else during the last years of his life. It is full of anecdotes, and will contain much matter that has not seen the light before.

BOOKS WANTED.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," subscribers will hereafter be charged only 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

THE AMERICAN LESSON OF THE FREE TRADE STRUGGLE IN ENGLAND. By Gen. M. M. Trumbull.

What the press says:

There is no other teaching of Free Trade by example at all to be compared with it. . . . It is as interesting as a romance.—Chicago Times.

The author does not deal with statistics, but relates the story of the contest in such a pleasing manner that it reads like an enchanted tale.—Omaha Herald.

300 pages. Paper cover, 50c., cloth, 75c. Address all orders to THE RADICAL REVIEW, Chicago, Ill.

D. APPLETON & CO.

HAVE JUST PUBLISHED:

Noble Blood.

A NOVEL. By JULIAN HAWTHORNE. 16mo, paper cover. Price, 50 cents.
A stirring novelette, written in Mr. Hawthorne's most brilliant manner.

The Story of my Life.

By the late J. MARION SIMS, M. D. Edited by his Son, H. MARION-SIMS, M. D. 12mo, cloth, 472 pages. Price, $1.50.

Under the simple title of "The Story of my Life," Dr. Sims has in the most fitting terms narrated the origin and growth of those achievements in surgery which by the general judgment of enlightened men have stamped him as the benefactor of his race. The accounts of Dr. Sims's early struggles are of the deepest interest, and show that the path he trod to final success was not strewn with roses.

Maxims of Public Health.

By O. W. WIGHT, M. D., of the Detroit Board of Health. 16mo, cloth. Price, 75 cents.

"The intelligent householder who has no time, probably no inclination, for systematic studies, may read herein, as he runs, and find hints that will save himself and his loved ones from unspeakable pain and sorrow. . . . The greater portions of the book are devoted to the practical problems of combating infectious diseases and the removing of the filthy-conditions in the midst of which they flourish."—From Preface.

Elements of Zoology.

By C. F. HOLDER, and J. B. HOLDER, M. D., Curator of Zoology of American Museum of Natural History, Central Park, New York. Being the fourth volume in the new series, "Appletons' Science Text-Books." With numerous Illustrations, 12mo, cloth, 395 pages. Price, $1.50.

An admirable work for lay readers as well as schools and academies. The design has been to present, in concise and plain language, and in the light of the latest research and investigation, the life-histories of the various groups that constitute the animal kingdom.

Boys Coastwise; or, All along the Shore.

By W. H. RIDEING, author of "Boys in the Mountains." With numerous Illustrations. Square 8vo, illuminated boards. Price, $1.75.

A book of adventures along our Northern coast, with descriptions of lighthouses, the life-saving service, etc., etc. A volume peculiarly interesting and instructive for boy readers.

The Black Poodle, and other Stories.

By F. ANSTEY, author of "Vice Versâ" and "The Giant's Robe." Illustrated. 16mo, paper. Price, 50 cents.

WILL PUBLISH DEC. 6th:

RENAN—Section IV. by NOAH PORTER—Section V. by A. P. STANLEY—Section VI. by H. HELMHOLTZ—Section VII. by J. A. FROUDE—Section VIII. by Professor JOHN FISKE.

Bancroft's History of the United States.

VOLUME FIVE. NEW REVISED EDITION. 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt top. Price, $2.50 per vol.

The fifth volume of this great work is now ready for delivery. The sixth volume, completing the work, will be published shortly.

Doctor Grattan.

A NOVEL. By WILLIAM A. HAMMOND, M. D., author of "Lal." 12mo, cloth. Price, $1.50.

In "Doctor Grattan" the author has availed himself of his great experience in mental disorders, which often lead to incidents of the most romantic and surprising kind. In certain phases the story is therefore unique. The scene is laid in Northern New York, near the Adirondacks.

The Cruise of the Alice May.

IN THE GULF OF ST. LAWRENCE AND ADJACENT WATERS. By S. G. W. BENJAMIN. With numerous Illustrations. Square 8vo, parchment-paper cover. Price, $1.50.

The "Cruise of the Alice May" is a vivid description of a series of adventures on the schooner Alice May in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and adjacent waters. Some seventy illustrations from spirited drawings, engraved in the very best manner depict the incidents of the voyage and the places visited.

LIBRARIES AND READERS.

Chapters of suggestion and counsel on the subject of reading, the use of books and of libraries. By WILLIAM E. FOSTER, Librarian of the Providence Public Library, and compiler of the "Monthly Reference Lists." 16mo, cloth, 50 cents.

Contents.—Some Hints on Right Reading; Correction of Aimless Reading; The Specializing of Reading, for General Readers; "Current Literature," and "Standard Literature;" Securing the Interest of a Community; "What may be Done at Home; How to Use a Library; Books, etc., on Reading.

"Should be in the hands of every one who wishes to make reading a means of culture as well as of entertainment. Not a few librarians can find in it suggestions which, if followed will greatly inure to the benefit of the public they serve."—Good Literature.

"Mr. Foster's aim is to show how the aimless reader of the ordinary public library, the man or woman who 'wants a book,' but does not know what book, or even what sort of book, may be led to take a lively interest in books and the library. Here Mr. Foster speaks as one having authority, because in doing this very thing he has been most successful. His little book is to be recommended in the highest manner to all who seek to improve the quality of their reading, or who desire to give aid and advice to others."—Critic.

"No one, with limited resources, has done more to turn to account the collection under his charge, or shown greater activity and ingenuity in devising ways and means to stimulate reading, study, and research, and guide them in the proper direction. His chapters are valuable as exhibiting phase after phase of his perception of the conditions under which public libraries are now used, and found to be of service, by widely differing classes of the community. They are all sound, practical, and suggestive, and will benefit parents, their elder children, and the author's fellow-librarians about equally."—Nation.
